Kouma Community Center is located on the Fort Hood Army Base. JHP designed the 5,800 s.f. community center to include administrative suite, Great room (community room), Fitness Center and locker rooms in support of the new outdoor pool. In addition, an existing 3,000 s.f. building was gutted and remodeled to include a child play room and conference facility for the neighborhood. The site and buildings were required to meet DOD's Force Protection requirements including sufficient stand-off separation (blast protection), hardening of the building and glazing and audio emergency notification.
